Growth of Wheat.
I was given a letter from one of the best farmers in this county on the subject of the growth of wheat at the FOREST COLLEGE, S. p. 20. It was from J. S. Kelley, Purefoy & Brewer, BREMEN.—In reply to your inquiry as to the effects of "Long's Phosphoricals" for wheat, he writes: "I would that I sowed a ten acre cotton wheat last December, using the 'phosphoricals' in conjunction with cottonseed as a fertilizer. The yield was unusually large, and the plants were very healthy." The season here, as elsewhere in the State, was a very unfavorable one for wheat. Had the season been better I have no doubt but the yield would have been much greater. The wheat was sown the week before last, and was rather late.

I think much of the yield is attributed to the "Chemicals," I them an excellent fertilizer.

Yours truly,
P. H. MANOUK.

A large proportion of the American people are dying from the effects of opium or opium-like drugs. The cause of these diseases upon the marvellous and valuable people is alarming, making life actually a instead of a pleasant existence and unremunerative and usefulness as it ought to be.

The Radical Pow-wow Yesterday.

The hour at which the slimy-attended, but disorderly, Radical so-called Convention adjourned, on yesterday, precludes comment on its doings this morning.

We direct attention to our local columns for a full account of the grotesque proceedings.

It will be seen that, notwithstanding the most vigorous and bitter opposition from Col. Young, Ike Strayhorn, and others, the "Convention," if the motley and meagre assemblage can be so designated, nominated the Hon. Edwin G. Reade, late of the Supreme Court, for Congress.

Mr. Reade had previously announced his unwillingness to accept such a nomination and probably will not do so now. Should he do so, he is every way vulnerable and will consolidate the Democratic vote to a man. The Democrats of this District can never forget that he is the reputed author of the infamous Legislative Address of 1868, which was filled with the most incendiary appeals to the negroes, and was the incentive to most of the evils and mischiefs that immediately followed its issue.

But of all this, more anon. Meanwhile, it is only necessary to say that the "boosing proxies" to the Radical Executive Committee, and their adherents, though whipped, are not dismayed, still cling to their endorsement of Turner and do not recognize the authority of the "Rump" or the validity of their nomination.

The Rape of the Presidency.

It is a notable fact that every State or local Convention of the Democracy, North and South, that has assembled since the perpetration of the great Electoral crime of the winter of 1876, has expressed, in the most emphatic terms, its reprobation of the infamy and the determination that it shall never be repeated. By a concerted system of frauds, forgeries and perjuries the votes of Louisiana and Florida were wrested away from the successful Democratic candidates, and rewards, in the shape of official salaries and perquisites, amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, have been bestowed, out of the public treasury, upon the band of thieves who assisted in the pillage. The American people, in the ensuing November Congressional elections, are about to give the first verdict they have had the opportunity of rendering on that most vital question, whether the highest office in their gift is to be bought with the public treasure, and whether the party, whose title to Executive power and place is based on forged affidavits, now disowned by the supposed makers of them, is to be endorsed in those evil actions.

Every vote given against the regular nominee of a Democratic Congressional Convention is a vote of endorsement of the greatest crime ever perpetrated in this country!

In this Congressional District, we have two Radical candidates for Congress, both of whom professed to be Democrats at the time of the perpetration of the Great Fraud, and who, in the hope of injuring Joseph J. Davis with some Democrats who take only a superficial view of things, arraign him, with sublime impudence, for his vote in favor of the bill creating the Electoral Commission. It is a singular way that Josiah Turner and Moses A. Bledsoe have of exhibiting their spurious and contemptible hollow indignation at the crime in question, that they should both have gone over, soul and body, to the party that perpetrated and has reaped it! It is the best evidence of the utter and miserable insincerity of Josiah Turner's objection to Mr. Davis, on account of his vote, that he (Turner) sought and obtained the "endorsement" of Radical leaders who were benefited by the Fraud,—of Mr. Badger, for instance, who held the office of District Attorney under Mr. Hayes, until, for reasons best known to himself, he chose to resign it, and of Mr. Young, who still holds, by special favor, (as against frequent efforts to dislodge him,) the position of Collector of Revenue. As for Mr. Bledsoe, he seems to have shown his horror of the Electoral crime by going square over, as we have said, to the party that accomplished it. And, finally, the strongest proof of the nauseating duplicity and entire want of principle of the whole concern is that, while willing to uphold, swear by, and profit by, the Fraud, they strive to prejudice, in the minds of unreasoning Democrats, the honorable and patriotic motives which made Democratic Representatives the unsuspecting agents of its accomplishment by a set of designing political prostitutes.

The truth is, that the history of the legislation that terminated in the creation of the Electoral Commission exhibits, in the strongest possible light and contrast, the patriotism of the Democratic party and the designing intrigues of the Radical corruptionists. The Democrats felt and the Radicals knew that Mr. Tilden had been elected. The latter, desperate in view of the prospect of letting go their hold on power, with Grant at the head of the government and the army and navy at his command, raised the cry of Southern intimidation and violence. We were on the verge of civil strife. Any attempt, as matters stood, on the part of the acting President of the Senate to count the Electoral vote of the disputed States for Hayes, or any attempt on the part of Mr. Tilden or his friends to swear him into office and have him assume Executive duties, would have been the signal for a war that would have had no parallel for bitter fierceness, that would have prostrated every industry in the country and deluged the land with blood. It was then that the idea of the Electoral Commission was received with almost universal favor, and it was then that the Democratic Legislature of North Carolina instructed our Senators and requested our Representatives in Congress to vote for its creation,—which they all did, in obedience to the voice of North Carolina, as expressed through the General Assembly, and in an earnest and patriotic desire for peace.

Here their responsibility ceased. The Commission, it was thought, was composed of men who, under the solemn sanctions of an oath, would act fairly and do justly. The sequel is known,—how the unscrupulous majority were false to that oath, refused to go behind the face of the returns, as they were obligated and organized to do, and swindled the people out of their lawful choice. The very first opportunity that presented itself for their doing so, the Democratic Representatives in Congress instituted investigation into the fraud, and the developments already made and to be made will show the black monstrosity of the crime and stamp its perpetrators with infamy forever. And as we remarked, in the outset, all the Conventions of the Democracy, without exception, that have been held in the past year, have denounced the Fraud, pilloried its authors, and affirmed, with stern determination, that it shall never be repeated.

But it may be repeated,—not in form, certainly, but in substance. A Radical House of Representatives, in 1880, could and would, in the event of the election of a Democratic President, devise some means of again frustrating the will of the people. They would not see the Executive power of the country passing out of their hands without a desperate effort to prevent it. We repeat, therefore, that every vote against the regular nominee of a Democratic Congressional Convention, now, is a vote of endorsement of the Electoral crime of 1876, and may put it in the power of the Radical revolutionists virtually to repeat the infamy!

Whatever protestations Josiah Turner and Moses A. Bledsoe may make to the contrary, they have endorsed the great Fraud, by allying themselves with the party which perpetrated it and profited by it!

Another "Southern Outrage."

We invite the special attention of the New York Tribune, and other shriekers over "the wrongs and oppressions of the negro," to the latest case of bulldozing. It will doubtless shock their tender sensibilities to learn that O'Hara, the only negro candidate for Congress in this State, regularly nominated in a Convention of the party, in a District where the colored majority is immense, is to be unceremoniously thrown overboard in order to make room for some hungry white Radical. The pretext for this proceeding is that O'Hara is a weak candidate and might jeopardize the success of the party, but how this can be in a District which gives a Republican majority of nearly 10,000 votes hardly appears. But O'Hara will submit to it,—and the Tribune and other friends of the "poor negro" will have never a word to say. Taken altogether, however, it is the worst case of bulldozing on record, and we should not be surprised, when the new Convention assembles, to see as recent a convert to the cause of the "poor negro" as the man who nominated and endorsed him, prospectively pocketing the perquisites.

THE FEATHERY FORELOCK of Cocking rose with the inspiration of the occasion at Saratoga, and he played President of the Convention and orator of the occasion. But when he waved the bloody shirt it was evident that the people thought 'twas time to "furl that banner." A Republican correspondent says: "His utterances in this regard were received with silence, which is significant of party sentiment when it is remembered that there were enough Cocking men, pure and simple, in the house to raise the roof with applause." We observe also that his ideas on this subject were not embodied in the platform, save in a vague resolution committing the party to the protection of political rights everywhere. It is too late (says the Philadelphia Times) to stir the people with the threadbare stories of the oppression of the black man.

Mr. Davis in Orange.

The Hillsboro Recorder says: "During the past week, our candidate for Congress spoke at Cates, Cedar Grove, Caldwell and Mangum's; and, with the exception of the last day, spoke under the disadvantages of bad weather. Consequently his audiences were small. We learn, however, that they were composed of the best material, representative men, and that the impression made was deep and will be wide-spread.

A number of Turner's friends, who voted for him in the August election, still adhere to him, but the number has largely diminished and continues to lessen, as the disgust at his greediness to take two offices at once, and his infidelity to his party, by becoming the standard-bearer of the Radicals, are being demonstrated.

We have every confidence that Orange will rally vigorously from its prostration, and give Mr. Davis a vote of which he may be proud."

Democratic Prospects in Indiana.

Every report that comes from the political canvass in Indiana is most encouraging to the Democrats. The Democratic campaign committee (says the Washington Post) has received estimates from nearly all the leading men engaged in the canvass, and they are very unanimous in predicting a decided victory for the Democracy. Gov. Hendricks expresses the opinion that the Democrats will elect a majority of the Congressional delegation and carry the Legislature. Senator McDonald counts upon a majority of straight Democrats in the Legislature, and feels sure of Congressional gains.

No better illustration can be given of the infamous character of the present tariff than the facts that come to light since the horrible plague of the yellow fever has fallen upon us. The demand for quinine is a demand for life, and yet, through this iniquitous system of protection, the entire trade is virtually in the hands of two Philadelphia firms, who are coining millions from it.

AMONG the saddest of the deaths by the yellow fever is that of Father Ryan, the devoted Priest and sweet poet of the South. His "Conquered Banner," "Sword of Lee," and many other fugitive poems, gave him a warm lodgment in the hearts of the men and women of the South and have made his name immortal.

THE MANLY, earnest, but indignant protest of Gov. Wade Hampton against the supercilious assumptions of the individual whom the Radicals have enabled to act as Governor of Massachusetts, in the Kimpson case, is meeting deserved commendation throughout the country. The Radical party, even not feeling justified in making any derogatory remarks.

DEAR SIR:—My husband has had Epilepsy for the past fifteen years. The past winter his blood seemed to be in a bad condition, and seeing the good results from the use of Vegetine in others, felt anxious to try it. He has also had no more of his violent attacks, and he feels much better. Am very anxious to have him continue the use some longer, and will be glad to hear of what reduction you would make and send me one dozen bottles.
